

ZANESFIELD STRIPTEASE BUGGER

(This fly is from an original designed fly from John Schoenauer called the Strip Teaser Fly)

Recipe

Hook	Streamer/Nymph, Size 2-10 4XL to 5XL
Thread	6/0, Red or color choice
Bead.....	2 Metal Black Small to match hook size to match hook size and one 2X larger (Optional Black Cone Head)
Weight	Lead wire underbody .020 or greater (Optional)
Rib	Copper Wire or choice
Tail	Chartreuse and Orange Marabou or choice of 2 contrasting colors
Body	Yellow and Brown variegated chenille or color choice
Hackle	Barred Chartreuse or color choice
Legs.....	Orange Legs or color choice
Head	Thread

1. Start by mashing the barb on the hook. Put on small bead first followed by the larger bead. Start thread on hook shank; be sure beads are all the way forward to the eye. Make a small thread base from mid hook shank to behind the large bead.
2. Optional - Make 4-10 turns of .020 lead wire behind the bead. (Note: Use 4 wraps to hold the bead in place add more wraps to achieve a quicker sinking fly.)
3. Over wrap the lead wraps with thread to secure them in place. Move thread to rear of hook shank directly above the barb.
4. Take a Chartreuse marabou feather and tie it on the hook, the tail should extend off the back of the hook about the length of the hook shank, wrapping your thread forward just behind the large bead and cut off the excess marabou. Wrap the thread back to the hook bend. Remove the hook and place back in the vice with the hook point facing up. Take an Orange marabou feather and tie it on the hook the same as the first feather wrapping your thread forward just behind the large bead then wrap back to the hook bend. Clip off excess marabou feather as the first time.
5. At this same location tie in a piece of extra small copper wire. Also tie in one barred Chartreuse hackle by the tip end.
6. Strip off a small amount of chenille to reveal the core of the chenille. Tie in the Core of the chenille at the same point the marabou and wire are tied in. Wrap the chenille forward and tie off behind the large bead.

(Continued next page)

7. Next palmer the hackle feather forward between the valleys of the chenille and tie off behind the bead. Then counter wrap the copper wire forward and tie off at the same place.
8. Create a thread base behind the bead and tie in the Orange legs on each side of the fly behind the large bead.
9. Whip finish the fly between the legs that are splayed outward and apply cement or UV to finish.
10. Optional - Trim the hackle feathers all around to match the size of the hook gap.
11. Optional – you can paint orange eyes on each side with a black dot in the center of each eye.

Instructions by Frank Cox
Photography by Frank Cox